Texas Women's Clubs To Participate In Achievement Contest

Mrs. L. E. Dudley, Abilene, president of The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs has announced that Texas clubs will participate in the General Federation Community Achievement Conest co-sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

This will be a project contest for the 1955-56 club yetar, with winners of the $60,000 cash prizes to be announced at the General Federation Convention in Kansas City, Missouri, May 14-19, 1956.

This community improvement contest is offered to clubs as an aid for their continuing work for their communities. Every community is in need of something—many need a great many things—to bring them nearer to the ideals of what they should be. Clubwomen in their long experience in the field of community service have found the best medicine for ailing communities is self-help, the best "doctor," the average citizen.

Emphasis will be on cooperation and participation of other groups and individuals with the clubs which are privileged to bring to their communities this opportunity to win recognition and splendid prizes. The achievement of true cooperation among organizations and people in all walks of life on any community project may well be the most fruitful result of any project undertaken.

TextileMill, Union Ink New Contract

Texas Textile Mills and Local 617, T. W. U. A.-C. I. O. Monday afternoon signed a new two-year agreement affecting approximately 615 production workers at the McKinney Plant. The contract was signed at the Texas Textile Mills office in this city.

Terms of the new agreement were reached, after approximately six months of negotiations including a five-week strike called by the union, at a meeting held at the firm's Dallas general offices on February 18. Giles E. Miller, president of Texas Textile Mills headed the company negotiators and Boyd Payton, the union's Southern Director, headed the union delegation.

The new pact provides for a revised incentive system of work assignments and wages which will provide opportunity for increased earnings for practically all job categories. It also provided for a slight change in the seniority system with respect to job bidding and a completely revised group life and hospitalization plan sponsored by the company. Arbitration of disputes not settled by the company's grievance procedure was eliminated, except when agreeable to both parties.

Representing the company at the McKinney signing ceremonies were Hugh S. Clarke, vice-president and chief engineer, M. L. Corley, personnel director, Frank W. Smith, mill manager and James Redden, mill superintendent. The union was represented by Ed Pearson, International Representative and Local 617's negotiating committee consisting of John Prewitt, Charlie Bennett, E. B. Edens, Everett Harris and Johnny Blankenship.

Company and union officials announced that the same terms reached at McKinney would apply to a new agreement now being readied for the firm's Waco plant. The union's Local 383 is the bargaining agent for approximately 315 production workers there.

Chaplain Parks Speaker At WMS Week Of Prayer

Chaplain James Parks, of the VA Hospital, was the luncheon speaker at the annual season of prayer program held Tuesday at the First Baptist Church. The Woman's Missionary Society of the Church, of which Mrs. Herman White is president, held this annual observance for Home Missions.

The program opened at 9:45 o'clock Tuesday morning with Mrs. J. W. Kendall presiding. Several phases of the Home Mission program were discussed, with guest speakers featured. One of these speakers was a young McKinney negro man, who is now a Baptist preacher—Rev. Vernon Perry Jr., bringing a fine message on the work that has been done among the negroes.

Mrs. Jack Anderson showed pictures and talked on the outpost "Alaska" after which a playlet "Mrs. Hope teaches Christian Civics" was presented. The devotional was given by Mrs. J. C. Abell, who with her husband, Dr. Abell, are on leave here from the mission field in Africa.

At the noon hour members of the W. M. S. served a covered dish luncheon in the North basement to which the men's brotherhood were invited as guests. The large dining room was decorated with many vases and baskets of japonica.

Concluding luncheon, Mrs. Grover Pierson, vocalist, rendered beautifully "The Lord's Prayer" with Mrs. Charles Myers, wife of the pastor, at the piano. A lighted portrait was used to illustrate the song most effectively. Mrs. A. M. Wolford presided over the noon program.

After welcome remarks by Mrs. White, the luncheon speaker, Chaplain Parks, was introduced by Mrs. Myers. He had been asked to speak on "Juvenile Delinquency in the Army," but, as he stated, "there are no juveniles in the army. When a man puts on a uniform to fight for his country, he ceases to be a boy, and is a man." He stated that delinquency in the army covers a vast territory but he briefly gave highlights of the subject, what causes it, and the answer.

Chaplain Parks, a most interesting and forceful speaker, elaborated on several causes for delinquency in the army which he listed as, the uniform; loneliness and fear; rapid change of environment; training, and military regimentation; strict discipline, temptations of evil influences; dfferent standards of conduct; weakness of character; and deep Christian convictions and lack of religion.

Each cause was discussed frankly and openly, in which the speaker used many of his personal experiences as a chaplain in the army for several years, to bring out points in his talk. He also paid high tribute to those thousands of men who wore the uniform of the army with honor and were not tempted by the many evils which confront our soldiers.

He closed his talk by suggesting changes necessary in man, government, home and churches to bring about a decrease in delinquency. "The Bible teaching of a man changed on the inside," stated the speaker is the answer, who further emphasized "a man's life must be changed. And if he is born again that is the greatest thing in the world. The church should be the center of community life, where young people can meet for the kind of training and environs necessary for Christian living. These are the answer to the problem of delinquency in the community."

The concluding program of the Week of Prayer services will be held Wednesday night, March 2 at 7:30 o'clock when the pastor, Dr. Myers, will be the speaker. He recently visited the mission field in Panama and will discuss the work there.

Local VFW Post Among First Red Cross Donors

When the advance drive for funds in the Red Cross membership and fund campaign got underway on February 15th, one of the first contributions received was a check in the amount of $25.00 from the local Post 2150.

Each year this veterans organization is one of the very first to send a contribution to the American Red Cross. The V. F. W. has always given generous support to our fund drive and the board of directors, volunteers, and staff extends sincere thanks to this fine group of ex-servicemen for their interest in the work of the American Red Cross.

Melton B. Trice, Commander in Chief, Veterans of Foreign Wars, stated in his endorsement of the 1955 Red Cross membership and fund campaign "When we members of the VFW were overseas we would spend our quiet moments thinking of home — of our community and the people who lived there. When we returned, it was a keener sense of awareness — a sharper eye for things going on to help make our community a better place in which to live. We saw and appreciated the services rendered by the Red Cross. That is why, as commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, I urge you to support the 1955 Red Cross campaign for members and funds. Answer the call — join and serve."

Mr. Trice can well be proud of his members in the VFW Post 2150 in McKinney, Texas. They have already answered the call!

NATIONS ARE PERSONS

SECOND IN a series of guest editorials presented by the Rotary Club of McKinney in commemoration of the Golden Anniversary of Rotary.

March 2, 1955. Suppose every wage earner in McKinney got a notice today that he or she was going to receive a bonus of one month's pay this year. Imagine the celebration! Yet, the idea is not so fantastic; for that is roughly the amount taken from everyone's income to finance the preparation for international conflict. That is one way of measuring our stake in the advancement of international understanding.

But there are even more striking measurements. If so much of our life's effort goes in tribute to the present lack of international understanding, much more is involved in the threat of a complete breakdown. Atomic warfare, at supersonic speeds, threatens our very lives and all we hold dear. Those who survived would exist in a world incredibly improverished and disorganized. On the other hand, what great stores of energy would be released for the improvement and enjoyment of life if this doom that hangs over civilization were lifted.

These considerations should impress anyone with his or her personal stake in the advancement of international understanding.

But what can he or she do about it?

To most of us the relations between nations lie for beyond our reach and control. The daily flood of news and interpretation about international affairs swirls over us, leaving us angry, fearful, suspicious and frustrated. As individuals, we cannot cope with nations. Indeed, we can hardly conceive of them save as ridiculous composites of stereotyped traits whose effect is to emphasize differences and the impossibility of understanding. The attempt to think of other countries merely as "nations" is a training in illusion and distrust.

Is there an alternative way of thinking about them?

We might begin by looking for the things nations have in common, instead of for the differences between them. The first thing—most obvious, yet so often obscured—is the fact that nations are peoples, made up of human beings like ourselves in their basic needs and purposes. A mother's love — a father's hope and pride—are very much alike in every nation. And no less universal among all nations is the people's stake in the prevention of war.

Thinking of nations as people suggests the possibility of understanding. Where so much of interest is common to the peoples of all nations, surely the solutions of their problems can be achieved harmoniously. Yet, though much time and study be devoted to informing ourselves about other nations as people, the opportunity for actual contribution to international understanding is still not apparent. Better informed, we may be less inclined to anger, fear and suspicion. But for active, personal influence on relations between nations, we are still frustrated.

Apparently, a further step in our thinking is necessary. Beyond the fact that nations are people lies the further realization that "people" can also be described as "persons." Thinking of nations as assemblies of individuals may help to bring the problems of international undestanding down to manageable proportions, for individual persons can get to know and influence each other.

That nations are persons is the approach of Rotary to its object of advancing international understanding, good will and peace. Just as in the local club men of different trades and professions find in personal acquaintance the inspiration to service, so among Rotarians of different countries personal acquaintance suggests ways in which agreement and cooperative action can be achieved.

There is a saying that "there are no foreigners in Rotary." Nor need there be among the nations of the world if international understanding is encouraged and fostered on the basis that nations are persons.

Marrs, Interlocutor For Boosters' Show

The best entertainment in the history of the Band Boosters Minstrel, is in store for all who plan to attend this year's show. Script for the various acts was written by B. B. Cope, hometown boy who has helped with all the previous part in the show as one of the five minstrels. Cope also takes part in the show as one of the "End Fen" and is a former winner of the "Ebony Award" for his outstanding showmanship. This year's script is funny and entertaining and promises to be the best Cope has ever written.

Praise should also go to Oliver Marrs, serving as interlocutor this years. Marrs has always been a supporter of McKinney schools, and especially the minstrel, lending his talents as a vocalist. He has directed the male chorus in previous years, as well as otherwise assisting in the rehearsals to put the minstrel "Over the Top." The Band Boosters felt they have "just the man" for the spot of interlocutor this year.

Bob Clark, Emory Davis and B. B. Cope are back in the End Men"positions again this year with three new recruits assisting them — Geldon Roberts, Ed Skidmore and Glen Coleman.

The big minstrel opens a two-night engagement at Boyd High School next Thursday night, March 3, at 8 o'clock. The repeat performance will be at the same time Friday night, March 4. Reserve seat tickets, as well as general admission tickets, are already on sale at $1 and 60 cents. If you haven't bought your tickets, do so right away. J. M. Whisenant is chairman of the ticket committee.

Mrs. Cynthia W. Frazier, right, of McKinney, one of the ten nation-wide winners in the Pioneer Rubber Company's "Win a Maid For a Month" contest, receives Pioneer's check for $300 from R. R. Siebens, proprietor of Smith Drug Store, 114 N. Tennessee. Mrs. Frazier won her prize, enough to hire a maid for one full month, by buying a pair of Pioneer's Bluettes neoprene household gloves and sending in the package front along with her reasons for using them. She bought her Bluettes at Smith Drug Store.

▶ MOST OF our readers will recall a fellow named Hoover—you remember he said that he wanted a chicken for every pot and a automobile for every garage. Well before he got through we didn't have a chicken or even the pot and a model "T" was considered a Cadiliac. Now he comes up with the idea of closing Veteran Hospitals here and there to "save a few bucks." I believe that being an ex-president he can go to the Army-Navy hospital for a check up if he so desires. Of course he was service connected as President of these United States. Funny things how the folks think that have more money than "Carter Has Oats." Thanks be that we have still someone in Washinton that thinks of the little man and we refer to a Congressman that the President call's, "Mr. Sam."

▶ SEE WHERE Tyler has landed a "big un". General Electric will build a $15,000,000.00 plant in that fine East Texas town. High respect went to G. B. Your Home Towners would say thanks to the Texas Power and Light Company for their help recently in our efforts to secure a manufacturing plant that McKinney didn't get, but went elsewhere. They did their part but the 'chips were against us'—but we can truthfully say that everything possible was done to secure the plant. We must keep on trying.

Service Schools Are Explained To Private Jane Doe Of WAC

(Editor's note: The item below is the eighth in a series of articles offering information about the new WAC Center at Fort McClellan, Alabama; the types of training available to members of the WAC, and experiences of the Jane Doe of our series, or of any young WAC. Parents will find the answers to many of their questions in these articles.)

VIII. SERVICE ARE EXPLAINED TO PRIVATE JANE DOE

As Private Jane Doe approaches graduation from basic training, she is informed that those women graduates who have appropriate aptitudes are eligible to apply for specialized training in certain of the Army's Service Schools. Those schools, and the type of material WACs may learn there, include the following:

Medical Field Service School: training as X-ray, medical and dental laboratory technicians, dental assistants, and occupational and physical therapists.

The Quartermaster School: courses in Army food service, which trains women in preparation and service, food management, cooking and baking, meat cutting, storage and distrtibution of food, and food inspection.

The Signal School: instruction in teletypewriter operation and responsibilities.

The Adjutant General's School: training in stenography, personnel management, machine accounting, and administrative techniques.

The Armed Forces Information School: courses which could include instruction for duty as a reporter, troop information instructor, test administrator; radio broadcast helper, public information writer, and other specialties.

The Army Finance School: courses in Finance Procedures. This training course includes instructio non cost accounting, computing, bookkeeping, budget preparation, disbursing and auditing, among others.

The Clerical Procedures and Typing Course: training as clerk-typists and stenographers for Post, Army Headquarters, and higher-level assignments. This course, which is conducted at the WAC Center, is unusual in that the enlisted woman may be graduated when she has attained the proficiency necessary for assignment. She is not required to attend the maximum limit of the course (which is 12 weeks for a stenographer and 8 weeks for clerk-typist) if she does not need the full training.

No previous typing or experience is necessary for the clerk-typist section. Classes are taught at all levels of learning, and each student in the typing instruction, as well as the stenographic classes, receives individual instruction to aid her progress.

Students in the shorthand classes must have had some training—whether it is only high school, business course, or self-taught shorthand.

Private Doe ponders the possibilities of training in one of the schools explained above, and, having been advised of her aptitude scores in certain fields narrows her desires to the three schools she would prefer to attend. In order of preference, she selects (1) The Clerical Procedures and Typing Course; (2) The Armed Forces Information School, and (3) The Medical Field Service School.

Jehobah's Witnesses To Hold Three-Day Assembly InMcKinney

Advanc representatives of Jehovah's witnesses will be arriving in McKinney all week, preparing for their three-day assembly to be held over the week-end. All meetings will be held at the City Coliseum.

Ministers and other interested persons representing about 20 congregations of Jehovah's witness in North Texas and Southern Oklahoma will be present. Over 500 are expected to be in attendance as the program gets under way at 7:00 p. m. Friday evening.

Highlight of the convention is expected to come at 3:00 Sunday as the assembly is addressed by R. E. Collier of Brooklyn, New York, district minister of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society. Officals anticipate a peak attendance of 1,000 a Callier speaks on the subject, "Why a New World Is Possible."

Preparations have been under way for weeks filling the many requests received by the convention rooming committee. Assignments have been made in private homes in McKinney and vicinity.

Staffed by experienced held supplemented with additional volunteers, the convention will provide a cafeteria to serve the needs of delegates. Full time ministers of Jehovah's witnesses will receive their meals free, while others will be provided at reduced rates.

Lee Carroll, local minister of the group, said here that the purpose of the assembly is that of public instruction in God's requirements as outlined in the Bible. The Bible, he said, is being more and more neglected in a world that is rapidly losing faith in God and putting all its hopes and trust in political ideologies of men, and which in turn are failing.

Seen About Town

By CAPT. ROY F. HALL

Saw a car run over a small black dog on the northeast corner of the square Saturday. The north-bound car knocked him down and doubled him up under its middle. It went on. The dog got up and started to run west, and right in the path of a south-bound car. Again he went down and was rolled along underneath until the car passed on. The little dog got up, shook himself, and barked at the back of the receding auto. He stood a moment, glaring about, and finally trotted off toward the court house, the hair standing up on his neck. One knock down could be an accident; two meant a deliberate attempt on his life, and he resented it.

In from south of Frisco came Arthur Magtile Saturday, boiling mad. He had purchased a bushel of seed corn in McKinney last week and at home found it was a bushel of English peas. Said he wanted to plant corn Monday if the weather permitted. As it happened, I was talking to Walt Matthews of near Princeton when Arthur came up. Walt told him of making about $200 from his two acres of peas last year, dry as it was, and got old Arthur to thinking. It wound up by Arthur going off to buy seed corn and keeping the peas. I often wonder if things happening like this are mere chance, or could there be a directing Intelligence behind them.

Two colored boys almost coming to blows in front of Edwards' grocery on East Louisiana. Knowing both of them, I stopped. "He done beat me out'en my pewee," one of them explained. I found that a "pewee" was a small marble, and the larger boy had lost it in a "sight-unseen" swap, in which he had received a knife with no blades. I declined to settle it for them, and they went on, still squabling.

Asked George Winhoff from east of Wetsel how come he was walking around town with no hat. Lost it, he explained. On the way to McKinney last Friday his hat blew off in the high wind and landed in the middle of Highway 75. George pulled over to the side and stopped. As he did so a big car, traveling fast, ran over his hat and when the car had passed there was not hat there. He looked around a bit, and took out after the other car. He was not able to overtake it though, but followed it to McKinney. Sucked up under the car somehow, he thought.

I would like to chide the young men of McKinney a bit. The City Commissioner election is coming up in a little over a week and only one complete ticket in the field. We will never have the progressive spirit in this town unless the young men take more interest in civic government. Every leading organization and club in the city should meet and discuss the possibility of placing chosen candidates in the race, it is the Democratic way so life.

The above calls to mind a joke. Back in 1884 the county judge race was a hot one, and when the polls closed one candidate, whose name I withhold, was informed that he was badly beaten. He went around town snorting and blowing that you could not depend on what a voter promised, and that he was done with friends. Almost had several fights. Unknown to him, he had won, four to one.

Received a telephone call from a lady in the country last Friday, inquiring as to the weather. She wanted to do her washing but wanted to be sure the clothes would dry before Saturday morning. Last Saturday morning my wife asked me if it would be fair enough during the day for clothes to dry. I told her it looked as if we were to have cloudy and drizzly weather all day. She said nothing, but went right on and washed. That afternoon the sun came out sun and her clothes were dry in an hour. She still said nothing. I haven't either.

This moist, warm weather will cause trees and shrubs to blossom forth, but, even at that we are away behind this time last year. On the 21st of February, 1954, fruit trees were in full blossom and we made no fruit to speak of. May have some this year. Looks like mild weather the rest of the week.

Wylie Girls Win Bi-District Game 36-34

By FRED DICKINSON

The Wylie Pirates won their way into the regional round of girls' basketball in the Texas Interscholastic League with a close, 36-34 bi-district victory over Collinsville, at Van Alstyne, Tuesday night.

Margie Cross dropped in a Wylie side shot just as the buzzer sounded ending a contest that was close and well played all the way. The Wylie girls will take part in the regional tournament at Joe Perkins gymnasium, at Southern Methodist University, in Dallas, Friday and Saturday of this week, as a result of this victory.

It was a hard fought triumph for Coach R. C. Dodd's marron and white clad youngsters. The Collinsville girls, coached by Milton Pierce, and also called the Pirates led for a long stretch in the first hal fand had tied the game up at 34-34 with only a few seconds left when Juvean McWhorter, their tall center, scored with an overhead push shot from the free throw circle—a shot that she used effectively all evening.

Defense predominated in this one. Both teams sported phenomenal victory records. Wylie came into the contest with 30 wins and 7 losses; the Maroon and Gold-clad Collinsville girls had won 34 while losing only 1. Their high powered offenses simply came to a grinding halt against stout defending all the way. In fact, Wylie could score only one field goal, a side shot by little Gail Dempsey, in the entire first quarter, which ended with Collinsville leading, 11-9.

In the second quarter, Collinsville got the longest lead of the night, 13-9. Wylie tied it up with 3 minutes and 20 seconds left in the half when Betty White, a tall, smooth dribbling center, hit a backhand shot. McWhorter's free throw just before the half brought Collinsville back in front, 14-13.

The third quarter was another see-saw battle. Offenses that had run wild in other games fooled no one. The Collinsville guard court, headed by little Rebecca Hazelwood, had the answer for Wylie's sharp dribbling game, while the superb Wylie guard court of Maureen Flowers, Cora Thrasher Charlene Shields and Martha Ann Hooper, stuck right with Collinsville's long passing, smoothly maneuvering forwards. Both sets of forwards found it hard to gain time for accurate shooting; in fact, there was not a completely executed passing play under the basket in the entire game.

Little Ramona Steen, a dead-eye long range shotmaker, kept Collinsville in the game in the last half as she hit with two exceptionally long shots and seven free throws. Three minutes deep in the fourth quarter, Wylie got ahead when Cross stole the ball on a Collinsville throw-in and drove for the Collinsville basket, shooting as she went. It clicked, and Coach Dodd's girls were ahead. With only two and a half minutes left, Cross expanded the lead to 32-30 with a free throw, and Wylie attempted to stall out the clock. The Collinsville girls came out after the ball and repeatedly fouled the Wyie forwards, but Wylie couldn't connect on the gift shots and Steen pulled Collinsville up to a 1-point deficit with a long shot from the corner. Dempsey made a free throw for Wylie, and McWhorter countered with her long shot from the circle to tie it up. That set up the climax of the contest—a battle under the Collinsville goal with Cross tossing in the winning points as the buzzer screamed the end of an exciting, well played ball game that could easily have gone either way.

A tremendous turnout of fans overflowed the Van Alstyne gym for the game. Wylie represented District 41-B; Collinsville, District 42-B.

Improving Plano Is Ready For State Playoffs

If you get a little better every time you play, it's going to take a pretty good ball club to beat you.

And that's the situation with the Plano basketball team which Coach Carter (Red) Massey will take to the Class A state basketball tournament at Austin Wednesday.

Plano was a pre-season favorite in District 12-A, principally on the potential of Doyle Rogers, the Wildcats' great guard. But Rogers was slow in finding the scoring range despite his fine floor play.

Plano was winning but it was doing so in an impressive manner. Doyle Braden, 6-2 junior pivot man, also was having his troubles.

The 'Cats lost to Duncanville, 63-53, in a first round District 12-A game and were forced to play catch up the entire second half of the race. But that loss to Duncanville might have been a blessing in disguise. From that point on Braden found the range and Rogers reached his potential.

Lewis Allman, Tommy Shields and David Pannell, the other regulars all played steadily and occasionally spectcularly all season but they aso seemed to catch fire after the Duncanville game.

Plano waded through the rest of the district season unbeaten and nudged Duncanville, 48-44, in the last game of the season to wind up in a tie for the loop title. A 1-game play-off went to the Wildcats, 55-43 and a berth in the state play-offs went along with the win.

After that it was Austin, Here We Come.

Plano rocked Granbury, 59-53, in bidistrict play and nudged Whitesbore, 57-56, in the first round of the Region 11-A play-offs at Denton last Saturday. A 57-51 decision over Crowell gave the Wildcats the regional title.

On each of Plano's last five appearances, the team has shown amazing improvement over the previous performance and a new star has shown each time.

Rogers, Allman and Shields have hit from the outside with radar precision and Braden has been effective from the post when the offense has called for his use. So deadly has been Plano's outside shooting that his hot hook shot has been practically abandoned. Pre-season losses were dealt by Woodrow Wilson (2), Lancaster (3), Garland, Forest and Carrollton. The Wildcats' pre-season wins were from Frisco (2), Carrollton (2), McKinney, Anna and Adamson.

Plano meets Buna, Region III winner, at 4:35 p.m. Thursday in the first round of the state meet. Massey and his 12-man squad will leave Plano Wednesday morning. —DALLAS NEWS.

Sherman Team Defeats Local All Stars 84-60

The East Baptist of Sherman (largely composed of Austin College varsity stars) defeated the First Presbyterian Church Allstars Thursday night 84 to 60 in a regular North Texas Independant League game played at Gunter.

Although the score was close throughout the first quarter, the more experienced Sherman team gradually began pulling away and had built up a substancial lead of 61 to 40 at the close of the third.

Scoring honors for the night went to the big 6'3" Austin College center Billy Hamm with 26 points. Kenneth "Pack" Hall was high for the Allstars with 20, while Frankie Biggs and Johnny Maroney were next with 18 each.

In the first game Gunter defeated Tom Bean quite easily 104 to 22.

Plano Wins Class A Title By Score 57-51

By FRED DICKINSON

The Plano High Wildcats had the calm, unruffled deadliness of a fine artillery crew as they shot the Crowell High Wildcats into submission and thereby won the Region II, Class A basketball title of Texas on the spacious court of North Texas State College, at Denton, Saturday night.

The score of 57-51 is deceiving as Coach C. E. (Red) Massey of the Maroon and White used his entire squad in the last few minutes. The score at the half was 36-18 in favor of the Wildcats.

Crowell's Black and Gold battlers were helpless before Coach Massey's boys in the first half as they stood off in the far reaches past the free throw circle and looped in fifty-six per cent of their tries in one of the great exhibitions of long range shooting in the history of the Texas Interscholastic League.

The win gave the Wildcats the regional title and sends them into the state meet, at Austin, this week-end. They will be one of the favorites in the race for the flag among the eight Class A representatives. The Wildcats almost won that title, two years ago, losing in the state final game by one point.

Doyle Rogers and Lewis Allman fired from the corners and Tom Shields from the middle in the long range shooting exhibition that sunk Crowell's rangy veterans. Rogers captured scoring honors for the victors with 19 points, while Allman had 14 and Shields 13. Shields hit six out of seven long tries in the first half, which saw the score tied six times in the first 4 minutes and 53 seconds. At that point, Plano pulled ahead to stay. Crowell had jumped ahead when veteran Mike Wishon took the opening tip-off in under the basket for a crip shot. Allman tied it up with a long field goal a few seconds later. The Wildcats led at the end of the first quarter, 19-16. In the second quarter, their air-tight defense and some spotty Crowell shooting gave them a good chance to pull away, and they did it by scoring 17 points to the Black and Gold's 2. Stung by the humiliation of a two-to-one lead, Crowell came back fighting in the third quarter and scored 8 straight points, but the distance was too great and they wound up the third on the wrong end of a 47-35 count. Gordon Graves, a tall center, with a peculiar overhead push shot tied with Wishon for high scoring honors for the losers. They had 16 points apiece.

The Wildcats, who have been noted for their defensive work all season, were strictly in the groove in the championship game in that department. Doyle Braden and Rogers led the defense which was heady and well timed, just the antidote for Crowell's hard dribbling long passing style of offense.

In the tourney's opening game, Saturday morning, the Wildcats won a 57-56 thriller from Whitesboro to advance to the finals. Rogers turned in a great game to lead the Wildcats in this one, hitting the net for 26 points.

The Wildcats had advanced to the tourney with a bi-district victory over Granbury and after winning a play-off game with Duncanville. In fact, they had to win their final game of the season from Duncanville, at Plano, to throw the district race into a tie and force a play-off with Duncanville. This was the second straight year the two teams had played off a final standings tie.

Saturday night's victory was a big one and so was the trophy which North Texas State College presented the victorious South Collin youngsters and their coach. In addition to the trophy — shaped like a golden basketball and about half as big—each of the Wildcats received an individual medal as members of the championship team. A large delegation of Plano and Collin County fans were present to cheer the Maroon and White team.

Each of the above named chairmen are ready to begin their campaign for members and funds during the first days of March and will work toward an early completion of their campaign.

Collin County's goal for 1955 is lower than the 1954 quota. We have a goal this year of $13,499.00. The national goal of $85,000,000 is the same as the 1954 goal.

Community volunteers make Red Cross service possible. Last year 1,575,000 volunteers participated in Red Cross programs. Of the 3,727 chapters, 1,400 were entirely operated by volunteers. The 15,000 paid staff serving chapters and the national organization would be unable to carry on this vast organizations programs, but with more than 100 volunteers for each paid staff, the work can be and is being accomplished on a very high level. This is possible only through the services of our volunteers. Since the Red Cross is founded upon the volunteers, its support must be constant and continuous . . . a stronger volunteer program means a stronger Red Cross. The strength of the Collin County Chapter depends entirely upon the support of its citizens. You and you alone can determine the type program the Red Cross carries on throughout this country We know you will make it great by supporting the 1955 membership ad fund campaign with a personal contribution. If a volunteer worker fails to contact you during the drive, please send your donation to the chairman in your community or to the red Cross Office in McKinney.

SHEEP AND LAMB OUTLOOK 1955

A farm economist describes as "doubtful" chances that sheep and lamb slaughter will exceed last year and predicts stronger prices in 1955.

Several factors may influence producers this year, says John G. McHaney, extension economist. Should range conditions improve lambs would go for restocking instead of being used to increase the supply of mutton.

The higher support price on wool may act as incentive for producers to hold or increase herd numbers. This could happen even though wool provides only one-fourth to one-third of the total income in the sheep industry.

The average government support price on wool this year has been set at 62 cents a pound, grease basis. The average for market wool is expected to remain near 53 cents a pound.

Because of poor range conditions and last year's increased marketings, wool production is expected to decline slightly. World production, however, is predicted to rise roughly one percent.

Consumer demand for lamb shows continuing signs of weakening. American are expected to eat approximately 4.1 pounds of mutton per capita in '55, less than 3 percent of the total red meat consumed.

COTTON INSECT CONTROL GUIDE IS READY

Entomologists are trying to stay ahead of their worst enemies—cotton insects. The 1955 guide for controlling cotton pests is already out and available from the local county agent.

The guilde lists each insect, the insecticides best suited for its control and includes proper insecticides dosages. A spray program for both early and late season control is given in simple, easy to understand form.

The bulletin gives information on how to make insect infestation counts and tells when to spray.

Again in 1955 the control program is divided into three phases—early season control, late season control and early stalk destruction and farm cleanup.

This bulletin should be a helpful and profitable guide to every cotton grower.

Copies of L-218, Guide for Controlling Cotton Insects in Texas, 1955,, are available from our office in McKinney and from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

The body needs the proper fuel to start the day. Research has shown that a good breakfast can prevent that empty, shaky feeling that frequently hits around 11:00 a. m. when breakfast has been inadequate, says Frances Reasonover, Food and Nutrition Specialists of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Breakfast need not be an elaborate meal. A simple menu that is easy to prepare and serve will allow time to eat leisurely and enjoy the meal.

A good breakfast pattern goes something like this: fruit, ceral, eggs, toast, and beverage. If the breakfast is planned around a cereal, it should also include milk, meat or eggs in order to get the most from the incomplete protein of the cereal. Annimal food contain complete protien.

Individual patterns for eating breakfast are very much a matter of habit, says the specialist, and a bit of self-discipline will help to adjust and improve them.

Most people enjoy a change. Variety in breakfast can be acquired in many ways. Change the appetizer by combining different fruits such as berries, sliced peaches, sliced bananas with oranges, etc. Some fruit juices, too, can be combined.

For a change, scramble eggs with tomatoes, or fry tomatoes, rips of green, and serve with bacon. Chopped, cold potatoes, heated in a little fat, scrambled with eggs add additional energy on cold days.

LARGE STEWING HENS A GOOD BUY . . .

A hen weighing 3½ pounds is a better food buy per pound than one weighing 2 to 2¼ pounds. By actual weight, it has been found that the bones in all hens of the same age weigh almost the same, according to Mae Bell Smith, Extension specialist in consumer information.

When stewing hens can be bought for 39c per pound or less, they are excellent budget meal choice. They are not young enough or tender enough to roast in an open pan but when cooked with moisture until tender, they furnish flavorful, juicy meat. They should be braised, stewed or fracasseed. Various tempting dishes can be prepared from left over chicken meat other than sandwiches and salad. If interested in out-of-the-run chicken recipes, contact your local county home demonstration agent.

NEWS FROM THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS — of — THE COLLIN CO. SOIL CONSERVATION DIST.

Surface moisture is adequate for the crops growing in this area at the present time. Recent tests made by personnel of the Farmersville work unit for pond sites show our subsoil as being very dry. It could be a warning as to what moisture conditions might be by mid-summer.

With the above thought in mind, many farmers are going ahead of schedule with spring planted legumes. This will give the plants a chance to get off to a good start with our present surface moisture, and could be the difference in obtaining good results in growth.

Most stockmen in this area know that the value of Hubam and Madrid clover cut for hay at the right time is hard to equal. Almost every farmer has grown enough sweetclover to know that this legume can do as soil conditioner. Grasses and legumes having massive root structure push their way through the oil, opening it up for water and air penetration and adding nitrogen and organic matter. These are needs of farm land all over this area.

The Supervisors of the Collin Soil Conservation District are encouraging cooperators to get their clover seed now, while the selection of quality and the kind you want are available. Planting of sweet clover such as Hubam and Madrid has begun, especially where it will be growing with Johnson Grass to be used for hay.

W. C. Dillon and Martin Cooper, east of Farmersville, have seeded alfalfa and will be waiting now for the harvest.

If you would like to see a comparison of Austrian Winter Peas and Hairy Vetch using the Harbers method of planting, visit the Bakter Estate north of Farmersville. Bert and Richard will be glad to show you the plantings and results of the different fertilizers used, etc.

Rowan and Shaw's farm of Venona, D. Davis and Lewis Evans of Leonard have sodded Costal Bermuda on waterways and in the pasture to be used for grazing,

Lewis George, Marvin Stewart, Garland Reding and Smith of Cross Roads Community have begun harvest of Bermuda grass roots. The telephone number of these men can be obtained at your local oil Conservation Service office if you wish to place an order.

Lon Caddy who is making good progress toward a completed conservation plan has shaped, prepared seed beds and sodded three waterways this spring. He also has a good acreage of winter legumes growing on his farm east of Farmersville.

Rocky Elliot on Mrs. J. T. Manthooth's farm southwest of Blue Ridge is making good progress on sodding six waterways All waterways will have an application of commercial fertilizer to speed up the growth and spread of the grass.

Trenton farmers and business men recently observed winter peas and vetch planted and fertilized by the Clinton Harbers method in the vicinity of Farmersville.

The farmers who made the tour were James Atnip, Bonnie Bailey, Clarence Crawford, Grady Crawford, Henry Donaghey and James Donaghey. All of these men are cooperators with the Collin County SCD.

Stops on the tour included fertilized and unfertilized vetch, fertilized and unfertilized peas, a button clover and fescuegrass pasture, a King Ranch bluestem and Singletary pea pasture, late-seeded peas, a newly sodded waterway and the climax of the tour was the peas planted by Carlos McLeod on September 17 and fertilized with 200 pounds f 16-20-0 fertilizer per acre.

"McLeod's peas are now as pretty a cover crop as a soil conservationist ever dreamed of," stated Ray McLaughlin, local Conservationist and leader of the tour.

The comments of the group were varied. Henry Donaghey, banker and farmer said, "it looks like a good thing to me." Clarence Crawford, recalling a struggle he had with a good growth of peas on beds, commented, "I would like to know how McLeod is going to get these peas out of the way so he can plant cotton." Bonnie Bailey was ready with an optomistic answer, "if they will make cotton for us, we will find a way to stop them." James Donaghey, sponsor of the tour said, "I think the group was interested by what they saw."

A & P Magazine Is Featuring Currier And Ives Prints

Beginning in the March issue of Woman's Day, the A&P magazine, a series of Currier and Ives prints will be presented in full color 8½" x 11" reproductions. The pair in the March issue are "The Road, — Winter" and "Home on Thanksgiving." True fanciers of Currier and Ives may obtain the same print in 14" x 18" size by special order.

The series will continue through June and possibly July, for a total of eight or ten particulad fine examples of Currier and Ives' vast output.

The pictorial journalists of their day, Nathaniel Currier, lithographer, and James Merritt Ives, artist, recorded the news sensations, the customs and manners, the jokes and plesanties of the latter half of the nineteenth century. The long revival their prints are experiencing is due to the nostalgia they evoke for a past recent in years, but vastly different from the life of today. Collectors have paid as high as $3,000 for some of the prints, and the originals of the "Road, — Winter" and "Home to Thanksgiving" are valued at $1,500 and $1,750, respectively.

Plaster of Paris was originally manufactured near Paris, France.

Blue Ridge Class Gives Style Show

The freshmen girls of Blue Ridge High School entertained their upper classmen with a style show. Shown when the dresses completed, with accessories which they had made in class. The Freshman class spent three weeks in actual construction and all garments were made of simple Spring cottons. Some members made full skirts while others made complete dresses. All of the fashions were in Spring design.

One of the outstanding skirts was modeled by Patsy Williams. It was made of black cotton material, made with sixteen gores, and worn with a baby blue blouse and matching petticoat. She wore a red belt, red pumps and carried a red purse.

Two oustanding dresses were modeled by Betty Atterberry and Shirley McTee. Both were made of red and white checked gingham and were jumpers. With her frock, Betty wore a white nylon blouse accented with red bow at the neck and frilly petticoats under the umbrella skirt. With a note of Spring maid in mind, her accessories were a white hat and shoes and red earrings.

Shirley's dress was fashioned with a sporty square neckline and full gathered skirt. She wore it without a blouse, over extremely full petticoats. Her accessories were white pumps, white gloves, hat and costume jewelry.

Other styles, smiliar to those described above, were also modeled in the show.

TextileMill, Union Ink New Contract

Texas Textile Mills and Local 617, T. W. U. A.-C. I. O. Monday afternoon signed a new two-year agreement affecting approximately 615 production workers at the McKinney Plant. The contract was signed at the Texas Textile Mills office in this city.

Terms of the new agreement were reached, after approximately six months of negotiations including a five-week strike called by the union, at a meeting held at the firm's Dallas general offices on February 18. Giles E. Miller, president of Texas Textile Mills headed the company negotiators and Boyd Payton, the union's Southern Director, headed the union delegation.

The new pact provides for a revised incentive system of work assignments and wages which will provide opportunity for increased earnings for practically all job categories. It also provided for a slight change in the seniority system with respect to job bidding and a completely revised group life and hospitalization plan sponsored by the company. Arbitration of disputes not settled by the company's grievance procedure was eliminated, except when agreeable to both parties.

Representing the company at the McKinney signing ceremonies were Hugh S. Clarke, vice-president and chief engineer, M. L. Corley, personnel director, Frank W. Smith, mill manager and James Redden, mill superintendent. The union was represented by Ed Pearson, International Representative and Local 617's negotiating committee consisting of John Prewitt, Charlie Bennett, E. B. Edens, Everett Harris and Johnny Blankenship.

Company and union officials announced that the same terms reached at McKinney would apply to a new agreement now being readied for the firm's Waco plant. The union's Local 383 is the bargaining agent for approximately 315 production workers there.

Filing Deadlines Set For April Elections

With two elections to be held in April, deadlines have been set for filing by candidates, this month.

Friday, March 4, is the deadline for filing for the office of Mayor, and City Commissioner, of McKinney. The City election will be held Tuesday, April 5. At that time a Mayor, and two City Commissioners will be elected. Up to the present time, two men have announced for the office of Mayor — Mayor R. F. Newsome, the present incumbent asking for re-election; and W. R. (Bill) West, local business man.

Two candidates for City Commissioner have also announced: George W. James, the present incumbent seeking re-election, and Geldon Roberts. Choice McClure, one of the present commissioners, is retiring when his term of office expires in April.

The other election which always holds considerable interest in McKinney each year, is the school trustee election. Two of the present members "go off" the board when their terms expire April 2, school trustee election day. One of these, Jimmy Foster, states definitely that he will not be a candidate for re-election this year.

Two members will be elected at that date, however, at the present time, there have been no announcements for the trusteeship.

The final date for filing is Monday. March 14, which is 20 days before election day.

The "Caperettes, Plus One" well known group of local performers, will be featured in a modern dance, to the tune of "Dry Bones" in the Band Boosters' Minstrel to be staged here Thursday and Friday nights, March 3 and 4. The dance line is directed by Mrs. John Julian Jeanes, who also performs with the girls.

Herndon, and Miss Mary Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Lewis. The "Plus One" member of the group is Roy Ivie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ivie. These dancers have performed many times before local audiences and their act promises to be one of the outstanding ones in this year's minstrel.

Glen Coleman and Fred McKinney, co-chairmen of the Band Boosters Club, and James Redden and James Stewart, co-chairmen for the minstrel, are pleased with the way the show is shaping up and the selection of the cast. Committees are functioning, and everything is in readiness for the first rehearsal to be held next Sunday afternoon, February 27, at 1:30 o'clock, in the Band room.

Chaplain Parks Speaker At WMS Week Of Prayer

Chaplain James Parks, of the VA Hospital, was the luncheon speaker at the annual season of prayer program held Tuesday at the First Baptist Church. The Woman's Missionary Society of the Church, of which Mrs. Herman White is president, held this annual observance for Home Missions.

The program opened at 9:45 o'clock Tuesday morning with Mrs. J. W. Kendall presiding. Several phases of the Home Mission program were discussed, with guest speakers featured. One of these speakers was a young McKinney negro man, who is now a Baptist preacher—Rev. Vernon Perry Jr., bringing a fine message on the work that has been done among the negroes.

Mrs. Jack Anderson showed pictures and talked on the outpost "Alaska" after which a playlet "Mrs. Hope teaches Christian Civics" was presented. The devotional was given by Mrs. J. C. Abell, who with her husband, Dr. Abell, are on leave here from the mission field in Africa.

At the noon hour members of the W. M. S. served a covered dish luncheon in the North basement to which the men's brotherhood were invited as guests. The large dining room was decorated with many vases and baskets of japonica.

Concluding luncheon, Mrs. Grover Pierson, vocalist, rendered beautifully "The Lord's Prayer" with Mrs. Charles Myers, wife of the pastor, at the piano. A lighted portrait was used to illustrate the song most effectively. Mrs. A. M. Wolford presided over the noon program.

After welcome remarks by Mrs. White, the luncheon speaker, Chaplain Parks, was introduced by Mrs. Myers. He had been asked to speak on "Juvenile Delinquency in the Army," but, as he stated, "there are no juveniles in the army. When a man puts on a uniform to fight for his country, he ceases to be a boy, and is a man." He stated that delinquency in the army covers a vast territory but he briefly gave highlights of the subject, what causes it, and the answer.

Chaplain Parks, a most interesting and forceful speaker, elaborated on several causes for delinquency in the army which he listed as, the uniform; loneliness and fear; rapid change of environment; training, and military regimentation; strict discipline, temptations of evil influences; dfferent standards of conduct; weakness of character; and deep Christian convictions and lack of religion.

Each cause was discussed frankly and openly, in which the speaker used many of his personal experiences as a chaplain in the army for several years, to bring out points in his talk. He also paid high tribute to those thousands of men who wore the uniform of the army with honor and were not tempted by the many evils which confront our soldiers.

He closed his talk by suggesting changes necessary in man, government, home and churches to bring about a decrease in delinquency. "The Bible teaching of a man changed on the inside," stated the speaker is the answer, who further emphasized "a man's life must be changed. And if he is born again that is the greatest thing in the world. The church should be the center of community life, where young people can meet for the kind of training and environs necessary for Christian living. These are the answer to the problem of delinquency in the community."

The concluding program of the Week of Prayer services will be held Wednesday night, March 2 at 7:30 o'clock when the pastor, Dr. Myers, will be the speaker. He recently visited the mission field in Panama and will discuss the work there.

Local VFW Post Among First Red Cross Donors

When the advance drive for funds in the Red Cross membership and fund campaign got underway on February 15th, one of the first contributions received was a check in the amount of $25.00 from the local Post 2150.

Each year this veterans organization is one of the very first to send a contribution to the American Red Cross. The V. F. W. has always given generous support to our fund drive and the board of directors, volunteers, and staff extends sincere thanks to this fine group of ex-servicemen for their interest in the work of the American Red Cross.

Melton B. Trice, Commander in Chief, Veterans of Foreign Wars, stated in his endorsement of the 1955 Red Cross membership and fund campaign "When we members of the VFW were overseas we would spend our quiet moments thinking of home — of our community and the people who lived there. When we returned, it was a keener sense of awareness — a sharper eye for things going on to help make our community a better place in which to live. We saw and appreciated the services rendered by the Red Cross. That is why, as commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, I urge you to support the 1955 Réd Cross campaign for members and funds. Answer the call — join and serve."

Mr. Trice can well be proud of his members in the VFW Post 2150 in McKinney, Texas. They have already answered the call!

NATIONS ARE PERSONS

SECOND IN a series of guest editorials presented by the Rotary Club of McKinney in commemoration of the Golden Anniversary of Rotary.

March 2, 1955. Suppose every wage earner in McKinney got a notice today that he or she was going to receive a bonus of one month's pay this year. Imagine the celebration! Yet, the idea is not so fantastic; for that is roughly the amount taken from everyone's income to finance the preparation for international conflict. That is one way of measuring our stake in the advancement of international understanding.

But there are even more striking measurements. If so much of our life's effort goes in tribute to the present lack of international understanding, much more is involved in the threat of a complete breakdown. Atomic warfare, at supersonic speeds, threatens our very lives and all we hold dear. Those who survived would exist in a world incredibly improverished and disorganized. On the other hand, what great stores of energy would be released for the improvement and enjoyment of life if this doom that hangs over civilization were lifted.

These considerations should impress anyone with his or her personal stake in the advancement of international understanding.

But what can he or she do about it?

To most of us the relations between nations lie for beyond our reach and control. The daily flood of news and interpretation about international affairs swirls over us, leaving us angry, fearful, suspicious and frustrated. As individuals, we cannot cope with nations. Indeed, we can hardly conceive of them save as ridiculous composites of stereotyped traits whose effect is to emphasize differences and the impossibility of understanding. The attempt to think of other countries merely as "nations" is a training in illusion and distrust.

Is there an alternative way of thinking about them?

We might begin by looking for the things nations have in common, instead of for the differences between them. The first thing—most obvious, yet so often obscured—is the fact that nations are peoples, made up of human beings like ourselves in their basic needs and purposes. A mother's love — a father's hope and pride—are very much alike in every nation. And no less universal among all nations is the people's stake in the prevention of war.

Thinking of nations as people suggests the possibility of understanding. Where so much of interest is common to the peoples of all nations, surely the solutions of their problems can be achieved harmoniously. Yet, though much time and study be devoted to informing ourselves about other nations as people, the opportunity for actual contribution to international understanding is still not apparent. Better informed, we may be less inclined to anger, fear and suspicion. But for active, personal influence on relations between nations, we are still frustrated.

Apparently, a further step in our thinking is necessary. Beyond the fact that nations are people lies the further realization that "people" can also be described as "persons." Thinking of nations as assemblies of individuals may help to bring the problems of international undestanding down to manageable proportions, for individual persons can get to know and influence each other.

That nations are persons is the approach of Rotary to its object of advancing international understanding, good will and peace. Just as in the local club men of different trades and professions find in personal acquaintance the inspiration to service, so among Rotarians of different countries personal acquaintance suggests ways in which agreement and cooperative action can be achieved.

There is a saying that "there are no foreigners in Rotary." Nor need there be among the nations of the world if international understanding is encouraged and fostered on the basis that nations are persons.

Marrs, Interlocutor For Boosters' Show

The best entertainment in the history of the Band Boosters Minstrel, is in store for all who plan to attend this year's show. Script for the various acts was written by B. B. Cope, hometown boy who has helped with all the previous part in the show as one of the five minstrels. Cope also takes part in the show as one of the "End Fen" and is a former winner of the "Ebony Award" for his outstanding showmanship. This year's script is funny and entertaining and promises to be the best Cope has ever written.

Praise should also go to Oliver Marrs, serving as interlocutor this years. Marrs has always been a supporter of McKinney schools, and especially the minstrel, lending his talents as a vocalist. He has directed the male chorus in previous years, as well as otherwise assisting in the rehearsals to put the minstrel "Over the Top." The Band Boosters felt they have "just the man" for the spot of interlocutor this year.

Bob Clark, Emory Davis and B. B. Cope are back in the End Men"positions again this year with three new recruits assisting them — Geldon Roberts, Ed Skidmore and Glen Coleman.

The big minstrel opens a two-night engagement at Boyd High School next Thursday night, March 3, at 8 o'clock. The repeat performance will be at the same time Friday night, March 4. Reserve seat tickets, as well as general admission tickets, are already on sale at $1 and 60 cents. If you haven't bought your tickets, do so right away. J. M. Whisenant is chairman of the ticket committee.

Service Schools Are Explained To Private Jane Doe Of WAC

(Editor's note: The item below is the eighth in a series of articles offering information about the new WAC Center at Fort McClellan, Alabama; the types of training available to members of the WAC, and experiences of the Jane Doe of our series, or of any young WAC. Parents will find the answers to many of their questions in these articles.)

VIII. SERVICE ARE EXPLAINED TO PRIVATE JANE DOE

As Private Jane Doe approaches graduation from basic training, she is informed that those women graduates who have appropriate aptitudes are eligible to apply for specialized training in certain of the Army's Service Schools. Those schools, and the type of material WACs may learn there, include the following:

Medical Field Service School: training as X-ray, medical and denal laboratory technicians, dental assistants, and occupational and physical therapists.

The Quartermaster School: courses in Army food service, which trains women in preparation and service, food management, cooking and baking, meat cutting, storage and distrtibution of food, and food inspection.

The Signal School: instruction in teletypewriter operation and responsibilities.

The Adjutant General's School: training in stenography, personnel management, machine accounting, and administrative techniques.

The Armed Forces Information School: courses which could include instruction for duty as a reporter, troop information instructor, test administrator; radio broadcast helper, public information writer, and other specialties.

The Army Finance School: courses in Finance Procedures. This training course includes instructio non cost accounting, computing, bookkeeping, budget preparation, disbursing and auditing, among others.

The Clerical Procedures and Typing Course: training as clerk-typists and stenographers for Post, Army Headquarters, and higher-level assignments. This course, which is conducted at the WAC Center, is unusual in that the enlisted woman may be graduated when she has attained the proficiency necessary for assignment. She is not required to attend the maximum limit of the course (which is 12 weeks for a stenographer and 8 weeks for clerk-typist) if she does not need the full training.

No previous typing or experience is necessary for the clerk-typist section. Classes are taught at all levels of learning, and each student in the typing instruction, as well as the stenographic classes, receives individual instruction to aid her progress.

Students in the shorthand classes must have had some training—whether it is only high school, business course, or self-taught shorthand.

Private Doe ponders the possibilities of training in one of the schools explained above, and, having been advised of her aptitude scores in certain fields narrows her desires to the three schools she would prefer to attend. In order of preference, she selects (1) The Clerical Procedures and Typing Course; (2) The Armed Forces Information School, and (3) The Medical Field Service School.

Mrs. Susan Hardaway Dies Thursday At Her Home In Melissa

Mrs. Susan Margaret Hardaway, 90, died at 5 a.m. Thursday in her home in Melissa. She was born December 6, 1863 in Kentucky, the daughter of Silas T. and Missouri Long Jordan.

Her survivors are a son, T. E. Hardaway, of McKinney; four daughters, Mrs. J. B. Hackney, Mrs. Wilma Porter, Mrs. E. R. Dickinson, all of Melissa and Mrs. R. E. Frazier, of Irving; nine grandchildren, and 13 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Hardaway has been a resident of Melissa for many years and was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Funeral services were held Friday at 3 p.m. in the Crouch-Moore Chapel, with interment in the Melissa Cemetery.

Jehobah's Witnesses To Hold Three-Day Assembly InMcKinney

Advanc representatives of Jehovah's witnesses will be arriving in McKinney all week, preparing for their three-day assembly to be held over the week-end. All meetings will be held at the City Coliseum.

Ministers and other interested persons representing about 20 congregations of Jehovah's witness in North Texas and Southern Oklahoma will be present. Over 500 are expected to be in attendance as the program gets under way at 7:00 p. m. Friday evening.

Highlight of the convention is expected to come at 3:00 Sunday as the assembly is addressed by R. E. Collier of Brooklyn, New York, district minister of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society. Officals anticipate a peak attendance of 1,000 a Callier speaks on the subject, "Why a New World Is Possible."

Preparations have been under way for weeks filling the many requests received by the convention rooming committee. Assignments have been made in private homes in McKinney and vicinity.

Staffed by experienced held supplemented with additional volunteers, the convention will provide a cafeteria to serve the needs of delegates. Full time ministers of Jehovah's witnesses will receive their meals free, while others will be provided at reduced rates.

Lee Carroll, local minister of the group, said here that the purpose of the assembly is that of public instruction in God's requirements as outlined in the Bible. The Bible, he said, is being more and more neglected in a world that is rapidly losing faith in God and putting all its hopes and trust in political ideologies of men, and which in turn are failing.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferris Williams, of this city, visited Mr. and Mrs. Bob Van Bevers and son at Westminster, Sunday.

Mrs. John Turner, of Westminster, continues ill, but is showing some improvement at this time.

UNUSUAL ....

Seen About Town

By CAPT. ROY F. HALL

Saw a car run over a small black dog on the northeast corner of the square Saturday. The north-bound car knocked him down and doubled him up under its middle. It went on. The dog got up and started to run west, and right in the path of a south-bound car. Again he went down and was rolled along underneath until the car passed on. The little dog got up, shook himself, and barked at the back of the receding auto. He stood a moment, glaring about, and finally trotted off toward the court house, the hair standing up on his neck. One knock down could be an accident; two meant a deliberate attempt on his life, and he resented it.

In from south of Frisco came Arthur Magtile Saturday, boiling mad. He had purchased a bushel of seed corn in McKinney last week and at home found it was a bushel of English peas. Said he wanted to plant corn Monday if the weather permitted. As it happened, I was talking to Walt Matthews of near Princeton when Arthur came up. Walt told him of making about $200 from his two acres of peas last year, dry as it was, and got old Arthur to thinking. It wound up by Arthur going off to buy seed corn and keeping the peas. I often wonder if things happening like this are mere chance, or could there be a directing Intelligence behind them.

Two colored boys almost coming to blows in front of Edwards' grocery on East Louisiana. Knowing both of them, I stopped. "He done beat me out'en my pewee," one of them explained. I found that a "pewee" was a small marble, and the larger boy had lost it in a "sight-unseen" swap, in which he had received a knife with no blades. I declined to settle it for them, and they went on, still squabling.

Asked George Winhoff from east of Wetsel how come he was walking around town with no hat. Lost it, he explained. On the way to McKinney last Friday his hat blew off in the high wind and landed in the middle of Highway 75. George pulled over to the side and stopped. As he did so a big car, traveling fast, ran over his hat and when the car had passed there was not hat there. He looked around a bit, and took out after the other car. He was not able to overtake it though, but followed it to McKinney. Sucked up under the car somehow, he thought.

I would like to chide the young men of McKinney a bit. The City Commissioner election is coming up in a little over a week and only one complete ticket in the field. We will never have the progressive spirit in this town unless the young men take more interest in civic government. Every leading organization and club in the city should meet and discuss the possibility of placing chosen candidates in the race, it is the Democratic way so life.

The above calls to mind a joke. Back in 1884 the county judge race was a hot one, and when the polls closed one candidate, whose name I withhold, was informed that he was badly beaten. He went around town snorting and blowing that you could not depend on what a voter promised, and that he was done with friends. Almost had several fights. Unknown to him, he had won, four to one.

Received a telephone call from a lady in the country last Friday, inquiring as to the weather. She wanted to do her washing but wanted to be sure the clothes would dry before Saturday morning. Last Saturday morning my wife asked me if it would be fair enough during the day for clothes to dry. I told her it looked as if we were to have cloudy and drizzly weather all day. She said nothing, but went right on and washed. That afternoon the sun came out sun and her clothes were dry in an hour. She still said nothing. I haven't either.

This moist, warm weather will cause trees and shrubs to blossom forth, but, even at that we are away behind this time last year. On the 21st of February, 1954, fruit trees were in full blossom and we made no fruit to speak of. May have some this year. Looks like mild weather the rest of the week.

Wylie Girls Win Bi-District Game 36-34

By FRED DICKINSON

The Wylie Pirates won their way into the regional round of girls' basketball in the Texas Interscholastic League with a close, 36-34 bi-district victory over Collinsville, at Van Alstyne, Tuesday night.

Margie Cross dropped in a Wylie side shot just as the buzzer sounded ending a contest that was close and well played all the way. The Wylie girls will take part in the regional tournament at Joe Perkins gymnasium, at Southern Methodist University, in Dallas, Friday and Saturday of this week, as a result of this victory.

It was a hard fought triumph for Coach R. C. Dodd's marron and white clad youngsters. The Collinsville girls, coached by Milton Pierce, and also called the Pirates led for a long stretch in the first hal fand had tied the game up at 34-34 with only a few seconds left when Juvean McWhorter, their tall center, scored with an overhead push shot from the free throw circle—a shot that she used effectively all evening.

Defense predominated in this one. Both teams sported phenomenal victory records. Wylie came into the contest with 30 wins and 7 losses; the Maroon and Gold-clad Collinsville girls had won 34 while losing only 1. Their high powered offenses simply came to a grinding halt against stout defending all the way. In fact, Wylie could score only one field goal, a side shot by little Gail Dempsey, in the entire first quarter, which ended with Collinsville leading, 11-9.

In the second quarter, Collinsville got the longest lead of the night, 13-9. Wylie tied it up with 3 minutes and 20 seconds left in the half when Betty White, a tall, smooth dribbling center, hit a backhand shot. McWhorter's free throw just before the half brought Collinsville back in front, 14-13.

The third quarter was another see-saw battle. Offenses that had run wild in other games fooled no one. The Collinsville guard court, headed by little Rebecca Hazelwood, had the answer for Wylie's sharp dribbling game, while the superb Wylie guard court of Maureen Flowers, Cora Thrasher Charlene Shields and Martha Ann Hooper, stuck right with Collinsville's long passing, smoothly maneuvering forwards. Both sets of forwards found it hard to gain time for accurate shooting; in fact, there was not a completely executed passing play under the basket in the entire game.

Little Ramona Steen, a dead-eye long range shotmaker, kept Collinsville in the game in the last halt as she hit with two exceptionally long shots and seven free throws. Three minutes deep in the fourth quarter, Wylie got ahead when Cross stole the ball on a Collinsville throw-in and drove for the Collinsville basket, shooting as she went. It clicked, and Coach Dodd's girls were ahead. With only two and a half minutes left, Cross expanded the lead to 32-30 with a free throw, and Wylie attempted to stall out the clock. The Collinsville girls came out after the ball and repeatedly fouled the Wyie forwards, but Wylie couldn't connect on the gift shots and Steen pulled Collinsville up to a 1-point deficit with a long shot from the corner. Dempsey made a free throw for Wylie, and McWhorter countered with her long shot from the circle to tie it up. That set up the climax of the contest—a battle under the Collinsville goal with Cross tossing in the winning points as the buzzer screamed the end of an exciting, well played ball game that could easily have gone either way.

A tremendous turnout of fans overflowed the Van Alstyne gym for the game. Wylie represented District 41-B; Collinsville, District 42-B.

Improving Plano Is Ready For State Playoffs

If you get a little better every time you play, it's going to take a pretty good ball club to beat you.

And that's the situation with the Plano basketball team which Coach Carter (Red) Massey will take to the Class A state basketball tournament at Austin Wednesday.

Plano was a pre-season favorite in District 12-A, principally on the potential of Doyle Rogers, the Wildcats' great guard. But Rogers was slow in finding the scoring range despite his fine floor play.

Plano was winning but it was doing so in an impressive manner. Doyle Braden, 6-2 junior pivot man, also was having his troubles.

The 'Cats lost to Duncanville, 63-53, in a first round District 12-A game and were forced to play catch up the entire second half of the race. But that loss to Duncanville might have been a blessing in disguise. From that point on Braden found the range and Rogers reached his potential.

Lewis Allman, Tommy Shields and David Pannell, the other regulars all played steadily and occasionally spectcularly all season but they aso seemed to catch fire after the Duncanville game.

Plano waded through the rest of the district season unbeaten and nudged Duncanville, 48-44, in the last game of the season to wind up in a tie for the loop title. A 1-game play-off went to the Wildcats, 55-43 and a berth in the state play-offs went along with the win.

After that it was Austin, Here We Come.

Plano rocked Granbury, 59-53, in bidistrict play and nudged Whitesbore, 57-56, in the first round of the Region 11-A play-offs at Denton last Saturday. A 57-51 decision over Crowell gave the Wildcats the regional title.

On each of Plano's last five appearances, the team has shown amazing improvement over the previous performance and a new star has shown each time.

Rogers, Allman and Shields have hit from the outside with radar precision and Braden has been effective from the post when the offense has called for his use. So deadly has been Plano's outside shooting that his hot hook shot has been practically abandoned. Pre-season losses were dealt by Woodrow Wilson (2), Lancaster (3), Garland, Forest and Carrollton. The Wildcats' pre-season wins were from Frisco (2), Carrollton (2), McKinney, Anna and Adamson.

Plano meets Buna, Region III winner, at 4:35 p.m. Thursday in the first round of the state meet. Massey and his 12-man squad will leave Plano Wednesday morning. —DALLAS NEWS.

Sherman Team Defeats Local All Stars 84-60

The East Baptist of Sherman (largely composed of Austin College varsity stars) defeated the First Presbyterian Church Allstars Thursday night 84 to 60 in a regular North Texas Independant League game played at Gunter.

Although the score was close throughout the first quarter, the more experienced Sherman team gradually began pulling away and had built up a substancial lead of 61 to 40 at the close of the third.

Scoring honors for the night went to the big 6'3" Austin College center Billy Hamm with 26 points. Kenneth "Pack" Hall was high for the Allstars with 20, while Frankie Biggs and Johnny Maroney were next with 18 each.

In the first game Gunter defeated Tom Bean quite easily 104 to 22.

Plano Wins Class A Title By Score 57-51

By FRED DICKINSON

The Plano High Wildcats had the calm, unruffled deadliness of a fine artillery crew as they shot the Crowell High Wildcats into submission and thereby won the Region II, Class A basketball title of Texas on the spacious court of North Texas State College, at Denton, Saturday night.

The score of 57-51 is deceiving as Coach C. E. (Red) Massey of the Maroon and White used his entire squad in the last few minutes. The score at the half was 36-18 in favor of the Wildcats.

Crowell's Black and Gold battlers were helpless before Coach Massey's boys in the first half as they stood off in the far reaches past the free throw circle and looped in fifty-six per cent of their tries in one of the great exhibitions of long range shooting in the history of the Texas Interscholastic League.

The win gave the Wildcats the regional title and sends them into the state meet, at Austin, this week-end. They will be one of the favorites in the race for the flag among the eight Class A representatives. The Wildcats almost won that title, two years ago, losing in the state final game by one point.

Doyle Rogers and Lewis Allman fired from the corners and Tom Shields from the middle in the long range shooting exhibition that sunk Crowell's rangy veterans. Rogers captured scoring honors for the victors with 19 points, while Allman had 14 and Shields 13. Shields hit six out of seven long tries in the first half, which saw the score tied six times in the first 4 minutes and 53 seconds. At that point, Plano pulled ahead to stay. Crowell had jumped ahead when veteran Mike Wishon took the opening tip-off in under the basket for a crip shot. Allman tied it up with a long field goal a few seconds later. The Wildcats led at the end of the first quarter, 19-16. In the second quarter, their airtight defense and some spotty Crowell shooting gave them a good chance to pull away, and they did it by scoring 17 points to the Black and Gold's 2. Stung by the humiliation of a two-to-one lead, Crowell came back fighting in the third quarter and scored 8 straight points, but the distance was too great and they wound up the third on the wrong end of a 47-35 count. Gordon Graves, a tall center, with a peculiar overhead push shot tied with Wishon for high scoring honors for the losers. They had 16 points apiece.

The Wildcats, who have been noted for their defensive work all season, were strictly in the groove in the championship game in that department. Doyle Braden and Rogers led the defense which was heady and well timed, just the antidote for Crowell's hard dribbling long passing style of offense.

In the tourney's opening game, Saturday morning, the Wildcats won a 57-56 thriller from Whitesboro to advance to the finals. Rogers turned in a great game to lead the Wildcats in this one, hitting the net for 26 points.

The Wildcats had advanced to the tourney with a bi-district victory over Granbury and after winning a play-off game with Duncanville. In fact, they had to win their final game of the season from Duncanville, at Plano, to throw the district race into a tie and force a play-off with Duncanville. This was the second straight year the two teams had played off a final standings tie.

Saturday night's victory was a big one and so was the trophy which North Texas State College presented the victorious South Collin youngsters and their coach. In addition to the trophy — shaped like a golden basketball and about half as big—each of the Wildcats received an individual medal as members of the championship team. A large delegation of Plano and Collin County fans were present to cheer the Maroon and White team.

Allstars Sock Southmayd By Decisive Score

Coach C. M. Swanner's First Prespyterian Church Allstars exploded for 40 points in the first quarter to breeze by Southmayed by the one-sided score of 120 to 43 in a regular Nrth Texas Independant League game played at Celina Mondy nigh.

Led by Frankie Biggs and Ronnie Klemm on offense and Chester Story on defense there was no getting around the green and gold Stars in any department as they constantly grabbed rebounds and polished up their shooting eye.

At the start of the second quarter Coach Swanner sent the second team in trying to keep the scorind down, but it was one of those nights when everyone is hitting.

Holding a 104 to 30 lead at the start of the final quarter, the first team went to the showers while Coach Swanner completely cleared the bench, giving all the boys a chance to get into the run-away contest.

Scoring honors for the night went to Frankie Biggs with 32 points, while his teammate Ronnie Klemm followed closely with 30. Joe Holiday was high for Southmayed with 12.

Collin County's goal for 1955 is lower than the 1954 quota. We have a goal this year of $13,499.00. The national goal of $85,000,000 is the same as the 1954 goal.

Community volunteers make Red Cross service possible. Last year 1,575,000 volunteers participated in Red Cross programs. Of the 3,727 chapters, 1,400 were entirely operated by volunteers. The 15,000 paid staff serving chapters and the national organization would be unable to carry on this vast organizations programs, but with more than 100 volunteers for each paid staff, the work can be and is being accomplished on a very high level. This is possible only through the services of our volunteers. Since the Red Cross is founded upon the volunteers, its support must be constant and continuous . . . a stronger volunteer program means a stronger Red Cross. The strength of the Collin County Chapter depends entirely upon the support of its citizens. You and you alone can determine the type program the Red Cross carries on throughout this country We know you will make it great by supporting the 1955 membership ad fund campaign with a personal contribution. If a volunteer worker fails to contact you during the drive, please send your donation to the chairman in your community or to the red Cross Office in McKinney.

SHEEP AND LAMB OUTLOOK 1955

A farm economist describes as "doubtful" chances that sheep and lamb slaughter will exceed last year and predicts stronger prices in 1955.

Several factors may influence producers this year, says John G. McHaney, extension economist. Should range conditions improve lambs would go for restocking instead of being used to increase the supply of mutton.

The higher support price on wool may act as incentive for producers to hold or increase herd numbers. This could happen even though wool provides only one-fourth to one-third of the total income in the sheep industry.

The average government support price on wool this year has been set at 62 cents a pound, grease basis. The average for market wool is expected to remain near 53 cents a pound.

Because of poor range conditions and last year's increased marketings, wool production is expected to decline slightly. World production, however, is predicted to rise roughly one percent.

Consumer demand for lamb shows continuing signs of weakening. American are expected to eat approximately 4.1 pounds of mutton per capita in '55, less than 3 percent of the total red meat consumed.

COTTON INSECT CONTROL GUIDE IS READY

Entomologists are trying to stay ahead of their worst enemies—cotton insects. The 1955 guide for controlling cotton pests is already out and available from the local county agent.

The guilde lists each insect, the insecticides best suited for its control and includes proper insecticides dosages. A spray program for both early and late season control is given in simple, easy to understand form.

The bulletin gives information on how to make insect infestation counts and tells when to spray.

Again in 1955 the control program is divided into three phases —early season control, late season control and early stalk destruction and farm cleanup.

This bulletin should be a helpful and profitable guide to every cotton grower.

Copies of L-218, Guide for Controlling Cotton Insects in Texas, 1955,, are available from our office in McKinney and from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

The body needs the proper fuel to start the day. Research has shown that a good breakfast can prevent that empty, shaky feeling that frequently hits around 11:00 a m. when breakfast has been inadequate, says Frances Reasonover, Food and Nutrition Specialists of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Breakfast need not be an elaborate meal. A simple menu that is easy to prepare and serve will allow time to eat leisurely and enjoy the meal.

A good breakfast pattern goes something like this: fruit, ceral, eggs, toast, and beverage. If the breakfast is planned around a cereal, it should also include milk, meat or eggs in order to get the most from the incomplete protein of the cereal. Annimal food contain complete protien.

Individual patterns for eating breakfast are very much a matter of habit, says the specialist, and a bit of self-discipline will help to adjust and improve them.

Most people enjoy a change. Variety in breakfast can be acquired in many ways. Change the appetizer by combining different fruits such as berries, sliced peaches, sliced bananas with oranges, etc. Some fruit juices, too, can be combined.

For a change, scramble eggs with tomatoes, or fry tomatoes, rips of green, and serve with bacon. Chopped, cold potatoes, heated in a little fat, scrambled with eggs add additional energy on cold days.

LARGE STEWING HENS A GOOD BUY . . .

A hen weighing 3½ pounds is a better food buy per pound than one weighing 2 to 2¼ pounds. By actual weight, it has been found that the bones in all hens of the same age weigh almost the same, according to Mae Bell Smith, Extension specialist in consumer information.

When stewing hens can be bought for 39c per pound or less, they are excellent budget meal choice. They are not young enough or tender enough to roast in an open pan but when cooked with moisture until tender, they furnish flavorful, juicy meat. They should be braised, stewed or fracasseed. Various tempting dishes can be prepared from left over chicken meat other than sandwiches and salad. If interested in out-of-the-run chicken recipes, contact your local county home demonstration agent.

NEWS FROM THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS — of — THE COLLIN CO. SOIL CONSERVATION DIST.

Surface moisture is adequate for the crops growing in this area at the present time. Recent tests made by personnel of the Farmersville work unit for pond sites show our subsoil as being very dry. It could be a warning as to what moisture conditions might be by mid-summer.

With the above thought in mind, many farmers are going ahead of schedule with spring planted legumes. This will give the plants a chance to get off to a good start with our present surface moisture, and could be the difference in obtaining good results in growth.

Most stockmen in this area know that the value of Hubam and Madrid clover cut for hay at the right time is hard to equal. Almost every farmer has grown enough sweetclover to know that this legume can do as soil conditioner. Grasses and legumes having massive root structure push their way through the oil, opening it up for water and air penetration and adding nitrogen and organic matter. These are needs of farm land all over this area.

The Supervisors of the Collin Soil Conservation District are encouraging cooperators to get their clover seed now, while the selection of quality and the kind you want are available. Planting of sweet clover such as Hubam and Madrid has begun, especially where it will be growing with Johnson Grass to be used for hay.

W. C. Dillon and Martin Cooper, east of Farmersville, have seeded alfalfa and will be waiting now for the harvest.

If you would like to see a comparison of Austrian Winter Peas and Hairy Vetch using the Harbers method of planting, visit the Bakter Estate north of Farmersville. Bert and Richard will be glad to show you the plantings and results of the different fertilizers used, etc.

Rowan and Shaw's farm of Venona, D. Davis and Lewis Evans of Leonard have sodded Costal Bermuda on waterways and in the pasture to be used for grazing.

Lewis George, Marvin Stewart, Garland Reding and Smith of Cross Roads Community have begun harvest of Bermuda grass roots. The telephone number of these men can be obtained at your local oil Conservation Service office if you wish to place an order.

Lon Caddy who is making good progress toward a completed conservation plan has shaped, prepared seed beds and sodded three waterways this spring. He also has a good acreage of winter legumes growing on his farm east of Farmersville.

Rocky Elliot on Mrs. J. T. Manthooth's farm southwest of Blue Ridge is making good progress on sodding six waterways All waterways will have an application of commercial fertilizer to speed up the growth and spread of the grass.

Trenton farmers and business men recently observed winter peas and vetch planted and fertilized by the Clinton Harbers method in the vicinity of Farmersville.

The farmers who made the tour were James Atnip, Bonnie Bailey, Clarence Crawford, Grady Crawford, Henry Donaghey and James Donaghey. All of these men are cooperators with the Collin County SCD.

Stops on the tour included fertilized and unfertilized vetch, fertilized and unfertilized peas, a button clover and fescuegrass pasture, a King Ranch bluestem and Singletary pea pasture, late-seeded peas, a newly sodded waterway and the climax of the tour was the peas planted by Carlos McLeod on September 17 and fertilized with 200 pounds f 16-20-0 fertilizer per acre.

"McLeod's peas are now as pretty a cover crop as a soil conservationist ever dreamed of," stated Ray McLaughlin, local Conservationist and leader of the tour.

The comments of the group were varied. Henry Donaghey, banker and farmer said, "it looks like a good thing to me." Clarence Crawford, recalling a struggle he had with a good growth of peas on beds, commented, "I would like to know how McLeod is going to get these peas out of the way so he can plant cotton." Bonnie Bailey was ready with an optomistic answer, "if they will make cotton for us, we will find a way to stop them." James Donaghey, sponsor of the tour said, "I think the group was interested by what they saw."

A & P Magazine Is Featuring Currier And Ives Prints

Beginning in the March issue of Woman's Day, the A&P magazine, a series of Currier and Ives prints will be presented in full color 8½" x 11" reproductions. The pair in the March issue are "The Road, — Winter" and "Home on Thanksgiving." True fanciers of Currier and Ives may obtain the same print in 14" x 18" size by special order.

The series will continue through June and possibly July, for a total of eight or ten particulad fine examples of Currier and Ives' vast output.

The pictorial journalists of their day, Nathaniel Currier, lithographer, and James Merritt Ives, artist, recorded the news sensations, the customs and manners, the jokes and plesanties of the latter half of the nineteenth century. The long revival their prints are experiencing is due to the nostalgia they evoke for a past recent in years, but vastly different from the life of today. Collectors have paid as high as $3,000 for some of the prints, and the originals of the "Road, — Winter" and "Home to Thanksgiving" are valued at $1,500 and $1,750, respectively.

Plaster of Paris was originally manufactured near Paris, France.

Blue Ridge Class Gives Style Show

The freshmen girls of Blue Ridge High School entertained their upper classmen with a style show. Shown when the dresses completed, with accessories which they had made in class. The Freshman class spent three weeks in actual construction and all garments were made of simple Spring cottons. Some members made full skirts while others made complete dresses. All of the fashions were in Spring design.

One of the outstanding skirts was modeled by Patsy Williams. It was made of black cotton material, made with sixteen gores, and worn with a baby blue blouse and matching petticoat. She wore a red belt, red pumps and carried a red purse.

Two oustanding dresses were modeled by Betty Atterberry and Shirley McTee. Both were made of red and white checked gingham and were jumpers. With her frock, Betty wore a white nylon blouse accented with red bow at the neck and frilly petticoats under the umbrella skirt. With a note of Spring maid in mind, her accessories were a white hat and shoes and red earrings.

Shirley's dress was fashioned with a sporty square neckline and full gathered skirt. She wore it without a blouse, over extremely full petticoats. Her accessories were white pumps, white gloves, hat and costume jewelry.

Other styles, smiliar to those described above, were also modeled in the show.
